

Part 11 ~ Surgery, can it be prevented?

Today I want to talk about the most commonly asked question that we receive. Will the use of this Low Level Laser prevent me from needing to have surgery?

This is a difficult question as foretelling the future is not within most doctor's scope of practice. The problem is that patients are usually just asking the wrong questions.

There are many alternatives to surgery and most of them will prevent or at least delay the need for surgery. And since surgery is permanent it should always be the last option, not the first. Combine this with the fact that not all diagnoses and surgical recommendations for that diagnosis are correct. Meaning that surgery may not be necessary even though it has been given as your only option. I can assure you that over the past 40 years of my practice I have seen countless patients that were not only able to avoid surgery but had complete recovery without the surgery that was reportedly necessary.

The next major misunderstanding that patients have is that they either need one form of care or another. The thought that they may need both never crosses their mind. So they try one form of care and if that is not successful then they completely discard that form of care saying "well that didn't work" and try another. I believe that this logic comes from the fact that there are too many specialist that have limited specialized care in their practice. The majority of patients do not have just one thing wrong with them so treating just one thing at a time has limited results.

When my father began his chiropractic practice in 1951 most of his patients suffered primarily from structural imbalances and making a simple structural correction made a significant improvement in their overall health. This can still work occasionally but since then we have introduced many other causes of disease and illness into our lives and environment creating many new health issues. I have been told that science introduces about 8,000 new petrochemicals each year into our environment. If that is true then we have to live with about half a million new additional toxic petrochemical pollutants today than we did when I was born. Not to mention all the radiation pollutants such as computers, cell phones, wireless systems in the work place and our homes, telecommunications and satellite transmissions etc. I am also told that we are exposed to more of these damaging radiation pollutants every few seconds than people were exposed to their entire lifetime a hundred years ago. Then we have the corruption of our food industry. Diet sweeteners, food additives of all forms some not even called food but edible plastics, GMOs, synthetic nutrients, and the list goes on and on. Then we have to remember the thousands of drugs that become more powerful every day that are introduced into our lives, of course the FDA then removes most of them as the law suits from injury become greater than the sales of the drugs. Of course you don't actually have to take these drugs to suffer from their toxicity as these drugs along with all of the other petrochemical pollutants are recycled in our water system re-polluting all of us again and again. And we can't forget the number of genetically engineered pathogens we have today that did not even exist 60 years ago that the body has little natural immunity to.

This is why we are sick and dying from different causes today than we were 60 years ago. If a child died of cancer when I was a baby it would have made worldwide news and today it is the leading cause of death for children. Autism is out of control and soon it will be rare to have a child that does not have autism to some degree. Dementia and heart disease are expected by a certain age and we consider that normal. 60 years ago these were rare, 100 years ago they were unheard of. Yes we may be living longer today but the health of that life is far inferior to what it once was.

The answer to the original question (Can surgery be prevented?) is many times yes and sometimes it was never even needed. And yes a Natural Energy Medicine therapy system such as one of the LazrPulsr therapy systems is a vital part of that solution. However there are many contributing factors that determine a patient's outcome. So this is my advice when asked this question.

First try everything to correct your health issues prior to surgery. Remember that this is very easy to do and even easier to continue to do for the rest of your life. We never ask that you give up anything but simply make better choices for what you already do.

Instead of choosing a form of care that is well over 100 years old that they themselves admit was founded on ignorance and false concepts to begin with, chose a new form of therapy that was conceived and designed out of our current scientific understanding of the cause of disease and health. A form of health care that can target almost all forms of illness even the newest current forms of damage to our health. As your first choice always choose a high quality form of Natural Energy Medicine, the safest and most effective form of care. Choose the LazrPulsr therapy system.

Begin by seeing a provider that that utilizes the latest LazrPulsr Mk 7 Professional therapy system. And since we are exposed to these new damaging influences on a daily basis we also offer the LazrPulsr Home therapy system to provide daily support for these daily insults and injuries.

Then add to this therapy by making additional better choices:

1. Choose to eat real food, the way God made instead of food that has been so adulterated by man that it has no nutritional value left.
2. Choose your pleasure foods carefully. Choose foods sweetened with pure cane sugar or real honey etc. instead of diet sweeteners that are classified as neurotoxins and corn syrup that is so toxic it kills all test animals ever tested.
3. Then choose real supplements made from real food to supplement any nutritional deficiencies you may have. But don't wait for a deficiency, start supplementing today because nutritional supplementation is designed to prevent deficiencies before they occur. Choose not to take off the shelf synthetic nutrients that have been thoroughly tested and proven to be toxic and have no beneficial support to your body. Nutritional deficient diseases are extremely prevalent in the US and seldom if ever recognized by physicians.
4. Choose to drink plenty of good clean filtered or spring water instead of that liquid that comes out of your home water tap. Even the water board cannot tell you what is in there or the hazards to your health if you drink it. Remember that the greatest dietary deficiency in the US is clean water. We usually think of 3rd world countries as having clean water issues. And they do have significant water issues with bacteria, parasites, and surface pollutants contaminating their surface and/or stagnant water sources. And even though our water in the US is clear and free of pathogens for the most part, it is contaminated with a wide variety of new and horrific pollutants that are even worse. All the petrochemicals and medications of our modern society are not all removed by the water treatment plants. Instead of filtering the water for pathogens they kill them with drugs like chlorine. Unfortunately when you kill pathogens and mix chlorine with organic material they form some of the most toxic and accumulative poisons known to man. Even your tropical fish stores will tell you to let the water sit for 24 hours to let the chlorine evaporate out of the water or it will kill your fish. How much of this do you really want to drink? And we have not even mentioned the other toxic drugs they put into the water supposedly for your own good such as fluorine etc.
5. Get the rest you need as sleep deprivation is a major contributor of poor health and basically stops the recovery from any disease.
6. Reduce your stress load by learning how to say no when life gets too busy and stop worrying about things that you cannot change.

These are just a few options that anyone can choose to do if they want to and these simple choices make significant changes in your health. Enough change that more times than not this level of care will resolve your health issues without medications or surgery.

But don't stop there, add or continue the other more active forms of health care. If your health and physical condition allows, utilize Chiropractic, Massage, Acupuncture, Physical therapy, and possibly adding a good exercise program just to name a few.

Following this line of care will give your body its best chance of healing naturally and prevent the need for surgical intervention. However, depending on the chronicity and degeneration of the condition, occasionally some people will still not have the capacity to fully recover and a surgical procedure may still be required.

If this occurs, never stop utilizing all the other forms of care that you began. These other forms of care that you have been performing are required for recovery from the surgery. Remember that even though people look at surgery as a corrective procedure it is still a traumatic insult to the body that will require care to recover from. Furthermore the greatest risk from surgery is not the procedure itself but complications as a result of the surgery. These complications include infections, scarring, poor or just incomplete healing and many unknown reactions to the numerous powerful drugs required to perform the surgery and that is just to name a few.

There is no question that quality Low Level Laser and Natural Energy Medicine is the best and most scientific method of insuring a complete recovery from any injury including surgery. Plus each additional therapy mentioned above will speed the recovery and minimize all known complications of surgery.

I say all of this to explain the answer to my question which is also combined with a second question.

Question: Will treatment with the LazrPulsr Therapy system prevent my need for surgery? And if not then why should I make that investment?

Answer: It may prevent the need for surgery, and if it does then it is the best investment you will ever make.

It may not fully prevent the need for surgery. However, no one should undergo a surgical procedure without the healing support of the LazrPulsr Home therapy system to insure proper healing and prevent other complications from the surgery.

So the answer is simple, regardless of the outcome if you are faced with a health issue significant enough that you may require surgery you will require quality Natural Energy Medicine therapy for both office and home care.

Anyone facing a surgical procedure should consider all the expenses and risks. These include the time loss from work and your daily family time plus all the hidden costs of co-payments and recuperative support and care. And remember that this applies to the entire family, not just the patient. And even though your doctor gives you the impression that this is a simple everyday procedure he may just be talking about his daily routine, not yours. It may take you, the patient, months or even years to fully recover from many of these surgical procedures. Then the potential risks of the surgery itself includes all forms of complicating factors which not only immediately adds to the expenses but it also includes any number of additional health issues and even the possibility of death which is no small issue itself.

So the real question is can you afford not to have a LazrPulsr Home or Professional therapy system if you are facing a potential surgical procedure?

Finally, I mentioned earlier that people may just be asking the wrong questions. Instead of asking what form of therapy can be used instead of surgery to correct my health issues, we should be asking, how can I prevent these health issues from occurring in the first place so I never have to even ask that question?

We live in a country where we are required by law to buy health insurance. Yet very little attention is dedicated to preventing disease. In fact, it seems that our country promotes illness in almost every way so it can then sell us their health insurance program. You have to admit it is a great business plan but it is so wrong at so many levels we can't even begin to cover that here.

We also know that the general health and our health care system will continue to get worse so what do you plan on doing about your health and your health care? Do you like the national average statistics for your gender and age group? Are you happy with your odds of needing surgery or your odds of dying from cancer, heart disease, Alzheimer's, or all the rest of the causes of death and disease? If you are then keep doing what everyone else is doing, eat what everyone else eats, follow the same advice that everyone else follows, and be sure to get all of your recommended immunizations and you are guaranteed to need the average number of surgeries, suffer from the same illness and die of the same diseases that everyone else does.

Personally, I didn't like those national averages so I removed myself from those averages, and you can to with very little effort. Just pretend that you are facing a health crisis, because even though you may not be aware of it yet you are, and begin following the advice described above for that crisis. It will remove you from the national average, it will drastically improve your overall health, it will save you thousands of dollars in health care costs and most importantly it will start you on the path of self-reliance for your own and your family's health.

If orthodox medicine was truly concerned about the health of the public these are the answers that they would be teaching. Unfortunately they don't and I have to leave the rational for that to the individual reader.
