

Part 6 – Homeopathy (& other components of Natural Energy Medicine)

Definitions of Terms related to this article:

Biological Amplification:

When photobiomodulation occurs, the photon activates a chromophore and that single enzyme molecule rapidly catalyses thousands of other chemicals. This is similar to the well-known, calcium regulated, 2nd messenger cAMP cascade.

This biological amplification process explains how photobiomodulation can produce such profound systemic, cellular, and clinical effects. Where Infrared and other light sources utilize penetration to reach their target tissue, true natural LLLT only has to reach the first living cell and the entire body has been activated.

Homeopathy - The Next Component of Natural Energy Medicine

Homeopathy is a very powerful method of delivering new information to the body. It does this with only the information found in the energy of a product without having to expose the body to the product itself whether it be a toxin, nutrient or any product or substance you need to introduce the body to. A hundred years ago homeopathy was mainstream medicine in the US until drug politics took over and it was abandoned. It was abandoned about the same time that all physiological (natural) forms of health care was discarded.

We introduce Homeopathy into Natural Energy Medicine in a couple of different ways. First we imprint general healing homeopathic remedies into the laser itself so that these remedies are inducted into the laser therapy itself. Next we imprint specific remedies into magnetic cards that we call Therapy Cards and have the patient hold these during the therapy procedure.

The amazing part of homeopathy is that it can be introduced to the body in so many ways. Orthodox homeopathy usually requires that the remedy be consumed in water or other media. Today's technology allows us to place the remedy into a magnetic media very similar to a video tape. We imprint this remedy into a magnetic strip that is on one side of a plastic card much like a credit card. This remedy can be introduced and made available to the body by just touching this magnetic strip. This allows the body greater control of the remedy and allows it to take only what it wants and ignore the rest.

Most of the therapy programs that we use has its own complex proprietary homeopathic remedy that contains information that may be needed by the patient to complete the therapy program. However, since we do not know what information or how much information each patient is missing or has been corrupted we do not know what each individual patient needs or does not need. So by placing a large complex remedy containing all the information we can find pertaining to the health issue we are treating, we allow the body to access and utilize whatever information it wants from this remedy during that therapy program. Which means that every patient will utilize something different from the same remedy allowing the body to customize its own therapy program. Keeping the body in control of the therapy is the primary goal of Natural Energy Medicine.

Introducing the Homeopathic component into Natural Energy Medicine makes a significant advancement in the therapeutic quality of the procedure and we believe no form of Natural Energy Medicine is complete without it.

Reflexology:

True light therapy (collimated laser light at 635nm at <5 mW) creates a process in the body called biological amplification. This process uses the optical windows of every cell to systemically conduct the energy throughout every living cell in the body. Therefore research shows that by treating one wound on the body, every wound on the body gets equal therapy. However, if you are attempting to treat a specific organ or system with all of the properties of Natural Energy Medicine then applying the therapy to the specific reflex point or meridian for that organ or system will intensify and direct the therapy to the proper organ or system quicker and more efficiently. Therefore we direct each therapy to specific locations on the body for the best and quickest overall therapeutic response.

Timing:

Unfortunately timing is relative and we live in a world of microwaves and instant everything. Today we think everything should take 10 seconds or less. A few short years ago we thought logging onto the internet with dialup that only took a few minutes on a 100 lbs of computer and monitor hardware was miraculous and we all got very excited. Today we want it instantly there on our pocket smartphone. In health care we are also programmed to believe some very odd concepts especially when it comes to timing.

Time holds an important role in 3 major aspects of all Health Care. With natural energy medicine time holds unique concepts for these 3 aspects over other fields of health care.

1. How long did it take you to get sick?

Most individuals think they have been sick since they started feeling bad or their doctor found a problem. According to energy medicine most illness starts with the corruption of information which may have started years ago if not decades or even generations ago. Then many individuals also consider that how they feel at this moment equates to their health at this moment when nothing could be farther from the truth. Athletes in the prime of their life that feel great are dropping dead on the playing fields and game courts. I can assure you that healthy people do not drop dead. These athletes had significant health issues for years prior to their death regardless of their lack of symptoms.

This also opens the door for being able to prevent disease and illness in the future. Since corrupted information can cause the body to be susceptible to disease and illness in the future then by resolving any corrupted information in the body today should improve the general health and potentially reduce the risk of any illness tomorrow. This is difficult for people to understand because they are led to believe that catching a disease early is finding it after it has already caused physical damage but has not killed you yet. With natural energy medicine catching the illness early means that we want to resolve the problem in the information stage before it even reaches the physical body.

2. How long does it take to deliver the needed treatment?

The time it takes to deliver the needed therapy is dependent on the amount of information that has been corrupted or lost. It is like loading a file onto your computer the larger the file the longer it takes. With Natural Energy Medicine the body not only has to acquire the information it also has to interrupt the information as we are never able to deliver information in the exact format that the body can directly use. This means some therapy programs may take a few minutes and some may take significantly more time to deliver. Then occasionally some therapy programs may need to be repeated. Not that the first therapy did not work or last but some conditions require that the body heals in layers. Sometimes the therapy works at one level of an organ or disease process.

Once the body receives the therapy it changes. Then it may need the same therapy again to correct another component of the same issue just at a different level.

3. How long does it take to get well?

While the quality of health care delivered can change the times required for correction and healing, it can never completely eliminate this time regardless of how much we would like it to. Many health issues never heal completely and always pose a weakness or predisposition to injury, pain, or illness. This is because a higher cause of the physical ailment has never been addressed which is the corrupted programs and information for that specific organ or tissue. I once purchased a small calculator. When I pressed the #3 key, #9 was entered on the display. This calculator did not work correctly, not because it was broken but because the program that ran it was corrupted. I took the calculator back and exchanged it. Unfortunately when this happens to your liver you can't take it back to the store and exchange it for one that works right. You have to fix the programming for the one you have or stay sick.

It takes the body time to utilize the information. Since this form of therapy is primarily about delivering and managing information and not about actually making the physical changes in the body, many procedures may not be fully realized for days, weeks or even months following the procedure. It would be like receiving the blueprints and instructions for building a house. Just because you have all the plans and know how to build the house does not mean that the house is built yet. In the same way, just because we correct or deliver the needed information for the body to heal does not mean that the body is now healed. The body still has to go through the process of healing and making the physical changes needed in the recovery process. The time it takes also depends on the correction that needs to be made and is not always that obvious. Some health issues respond almost instantly with natural energy medicine making it seem miraculous, which it kind of is, but this is because these symptoms do not require any physical changes or healing but only require that the body changes its understanding of what it is supposed to do. For example, we saw a trauma patient that also sustained a TBI (Traumatic Brain Injury) and because of this TBI they had a residual chronic pain syndrome that caused severe pain with significant disability. The body had already healed the physical injury but the pain remained because the memory of that injury was corrupted by the trauma to the brain. Utilizing a short therapy program that reorganized the memory of that injury this major disability with severe pain that had been present for months and progressively getting worse amazingly went away in a matter of minutes. On the other hand we can have health issues such as weight and shape. This program takes a much longer period of time to deliver the information but you may not see any changes in the body until the program is completely finished and it still may take months or a year or more to completely make all the changes to the physical body. And these physical changes continue to occur without performing any further therapy.

So timing is one area that we need to change our paradigm of understanding if we are to fully understand Natural Energy Medicine.

Natural Energy Medicine components:

As stated earlier Natural Energy Medicine is composed of many different health care procedures including but certainly not limited to:

Natural Low Level Laser Therapy

Pulse Frequency therapy

Homeopathy

Nutrition

Reflexology &

Timing

All of these therapy components are valid therapeutic procedures by themselves and have been utilized in that way for many years with great success. However when you specifically place them all together to simultaneously treat a specific organ, tissue, system or function they create a therapeutic response unlike any therapy previously known. We call this therapy true Natural Energy Medicine.

One last thing to remember is that you are still the treating health care provider and you have used numerous other natural health care services such as Chiropractic, Nutrition, Diet Counseling, Massage, Acupuncture, Rehab Exercising, Essential oils, and this is just to name a few. Our recommendation is to always use everything in your arsenal of health care options to give your patients the optimal chance of recovery. And adding the above components to your therapy will just enhance your form of natural energy medicine and will significantly expand your range of therapy and success of your practice.
