Lyme Disease

(Part 6)

How many of your patients are suffering from Lyme?

It is extremely common in some areas of the country but very common in all areas of North America. It is a bacterial infection most commonly caused by a bite from a deer tick. But now it is known to be transmitted by all ticks, and biting insects like mosquitoes, fleas, flies, lice etc. Babies may be born with it, or infected from breast milk. It can also be transmitted by blood transfusions and sexual contact. Most tests cannot find it. Most doctors never look for it. Most Insurance co. won't pay for it if you do find it. But, if you have had a tick bite followed by a bull's eye rash, you have it. Of course you are usually bit in a hair line so you never see the rash and it does not last that long so most people that contract Lyme never know it happened.

Generally speaking, 90% of the population have been exposed to Lyme and 80% of the population are infected. At least 30% of the population have symptoms at any one time. And these are low estimates from about 10 years ago. However, we should be more concerned about what the 60% of the population has to make them healthy even though they have been infected than what the 30% of the population has that makes them sick.

A significant amount of your patient's symptoms could be related to Lyme Disease.

Lyme disease can mimic: Chronic fatigue syndrome, Fibromyalgia, Arthritis, Lupus, Multiple Sclerosis, Parkinson's disease, Alzheimer's disease, ALS, Crohn's disease, Carpal tunnel syndrome, Temporomandibular Joint Disorder or any psychological disorder. Actually it can mimic and has been misdiagnosed for over 300 different conditions.

So how many of your patients could be suffering from Lyme Disease?

There are many ways to diagnose Lyme, history and symptoms or they may have already been diagnosed with Lyme before they come to you. You can run the C4a lab test but they are expensive and take some time. An easier and much faster way to rule Lyme in or out is to place the Lyme therapy card on the patient and observe a physiological reaction to the remedy on that card. If they react to that remedy then there is a high chance that they have Lyme or one of the coinfections of Lyme.

Anyone can build a successful business on Lyme cases alone by utilizing the LazrPulsr Therapy program for Lyme recovery. However, there are two things that you must understand and remember to be successful with Lyme disease.

First, almost everyone with chronic Lyme disease will have secondary infections that are not actually symptomatic while the body is dealing with the Lyme. These will show up within weeks of the patient resolving their Lyme issues and they will be any one of several other diseases such as the Plague, West Nile, Staph, Etc. It has been our experience that individuals with chronic Lyme have a compromised immune system that allows for secondary subclinical infections to remain in the body until the Lyme disease is managed and then they will become symptomatic and ready to treat. Even though many people will think that the Lyme has returned, this return of symptoms is what you are looking for as the provider. First re-test the patient with the Lyme remedy, if it is still positive then you will have to repeat some part of the Lyme protocol but if it is negative that means the body has completely managed the Lyme and now ready to move to the next infection. Find this next infection in the same manner and treat it with the proper therapy. This may occur several times before you have finished the entire process.

Secondly, most everyone with chronic Lyme disease will also suffer from an autoimmune disease in the Lyme involved tissue. You can show the body how to reduce the infection, but if you don't also show the body how to then stop the autoimmune reaction that the disease caused, then the inflammation from the autoimmune reactions will usually bring the Lyme disease or some other disease back. You must treat the autoimmune reactions with the proper protocol for a longer term correction.

Since there are probably over 250 million cases of Lyme in the US alone you will probably not run out of Lyme patients to treat. Remember that no one wants these patients because they are considered your problem patients. Even the orthodox medical field dislikes these patients because they have little to offer them. There are very few that can successfully treat Lyme regardless of cost and time so you have very little competition for these patients. The LazrPulsr Lyme recovery protocol is very effective in reducing or removing the symptoms of Lyme in most patients.

You already have lots of Lyme patients in your office so you don't have to go looking for them and they all know of a dozen other people just like themselves. No you may not resolve all of their health issues but you will significantly help the vast majority of these patients and you will change their lives when you do.
